Good Luck Milady

Good Luck Milady

Astrid was having a difficult time putting on her Dragon Racing paint onto her face that warm spring afternoon in her house. No matter how hard she tried, she would always somehow mess it all up and wind up getting paint all over her face in the wrong type of style that she wanted. She was beginning to lose all her patience at that moment.

"This is ridiculous! Why do I even bother putting this stuff on?!" Astrid asked aloud in an irritated tone of voice as she was about to throw the entire two bowls of paint onto the ground in her frustration.

That's when she felt a gentle hand grab her around her waist from behind to pull her into a gentle embrace from her adorkable boyfriend & royal heir to the Hooligan Tribe, Hiccup. He smiled at her frustrated face & he wrapped his neck around hers playfully.

"Don't do that Astrid, do you have any idea how long it took me to find those colors for you? I think you would have some trouble finding the same ingredients I found in order to make that for you." Hiccup teased her light heartily as he kissed her neck.

Astrid giggled in a mixture of affection and irritation at her boyfriend's sassy nature, "I'm sure I would be able to find them without any trouble at all. After all, wasn't I the one who helped you find them the first place?"

Hiccup twirled her around to look her in the eyes and replied back to her in a mock irritated tone, "Well excuse me~ Milady! I thought you would appreciate all the hard work that was put into that race paint that you were just about to throw down on the ground only a few seconds ago!"

Astrid giggled in defeat; there was no way that she could win against Hiccup's sass. "Fine fine Milord. You win the argument, now shut up and kiss me!"

She pulled him closer to her and she kissed him gently but tenderly on the lips with warm affection. Hiccup replied in kind & they stayed like that for a few minutes before they finally broke apart in a giggle fit over their conversation.

"Allow me, since you obviously can't make your lovely design all by yourself with your luck." Hiccup teased as he dipped his fingers in the paint and started to work on her design.

Astrid stuck her tongue out at him in a flirtatious manner, "Yeah yeah, I'm thankful that you are around to help me with this."

They stood together in silence for a while, with Hiccup's fingers gently brushing across her face as he painted her design. Making sure to get everything into perfection as she liked it to be.

After a few minutes, he was done with his work. Hiccup smiled at Astrid and told her, "Alright, you can open up your eyes now."

Astrid couldn't see the pay off of her waiting to see the design, but she trusted Hiccup one hundred percent with his art abilities. So she smiled at him in an affection manner and as his reward, she kissed him once again softly on the lips. Which Hiccup gladly accepted.

"I'll see you in the skies then, good luck Milady." He told her as he walked out of her house with a waving hand in the air wishing her luck.

She stood there standing and smiling like an idiot after her adorkable boyfriend left her house like a warm breeze.
